HOLDS AGAINST M'ADOO

Court Says He Has no Authority
As Rail Head.

Can Find no Law to Permit Anyone but Secretary of War To Act.

Louisville, March 4—In the course of an opinion denying federal courts exclusive jurisdiction in damage suits against transportation companies solely because they are under government control, has failed to find any statute authorizing Director General McAdoo to take control of the railroads of the country.

Text of Opinion.
The text of the opinion in this connection says:

"Under no established rule of interpretation could it be doubted that Congress authorized in time of war, the War department and no other to take over the railroads. If we assume (which is inconceivable) that the Secretary of War declined for that department, we can find no statute authorizing the control of the railroads under the Treasury department nor by a director general of railroads."

Judge Evans cited the law empowering the government to take over the railroads, pointed out that Congress specified it should be done through the War department, of which Newton D. Baker is the head, and asserted that W. G. McAdoo, "who was and is secretary of the treasury," has been appointed by President Wilson as director general, an office the court declares the law does not recognize.

After asserting that it is inconceivable that the war department was asked and refused to take over the railroads, Judge Evans declares, if the letter of the law were applied, it would be a question whether Baker and not McAdoo would not be compelled to operate the railroads "in person."

Peace Treaty With Germany Regarded Only Scrap Paper

BY JOSEPH SHAPLEN,
(Staff Correspondent United Press)

Petrograd, Feb. 4—The peace treaty signed at Brest Litovsk with Germany is now regarded as only a scrap of paper and the highest enthusiasm for fighting is prevalent throughout Petrograd. The pan-executive council has called an extraordinary council of the soldiers, peasants and Cossacks at Moscow for March 12 to decide whether to accept or reject the peace pact. The movement to unite all parties is growing.

German Loss Much Greater Than American

(By United Press)

With the Americans in the Field, March 4—On the basis of the recognized rule that the wounded are a quadruple of the killed the German casualties in Friday's raid on the St. Mihiel sector were far greater than the American losses, probably three or four to one. The highest praise has been accorded the officers and men of the infantry and artillery. It was learned that during the raid one of the German lieutenants ordered four Americans out of their dugout, and the first American out killed the German lieutenant on the spot.

Petrograd Was Dazed Following Peace Signature

(By Joseph Shaplen, Staff Cor.)
(Copyright 1918 by United Press)

Petrograd, March 4—"Even with peace signed at Brest Litovsk war will continue," Agricultural Commissioner Kayegayeff told the United Press. The sporadic revolutionary war already begun throughout Russia will not end. The country is not able to conduct real war against Germany but a partisan life or death struggle against the junkers and white guards. It will be a civil and class war, similar to Finland's, and I am convinced the German army as such will not participate. The provinces occupied by the Germans are devastated and the Germans must feed the Russians in the occupied territory. If they take Petrograd they must feed 3,000,000 inhabitants. The same condition is true of Ukraine, therefore the military victories will simply tighten the noose around the necks of the German imperialists."

The American, British and French consuls have arrived in Moscow from Kieff. Petrograd was dazed following the peace signature, the commissionaires wiring the Petrograd Workmen explaining that the peace signature was forced, it was simply an ultimatum supported by armed out-rages."

YANKEES SINK U-BOAT

Armed Guard on Steamer Wins Sea Battle.

Nyanza Fires Four Shells After Being
Riddled by German Fire—Daniels
Praises Gunners.

Washington, March 4—The American steamship Nyanza's armed guard, after battling a submarine for hours, probably sank its opponent, according to report of Chief Gunner's Mate Benjamin H. Groves, just made public. The action occurred January 12. Four shells sank German.

Feathered by shrapnel from two submarine guns, the Nyanza maneuvered skillfully while its armed guard coolly and carefully battled off the submersible. Finally, when the U-boat had a good range, the American guard also had its range and, firing four shells, evidently sunk it.

Daniels Commends Mate.
"At about 11:15 the submarine had our range again," said Groves' report. "At the same time I had his range and fired four shells quickly, causing him to come broadside and keel over, then suddenly disappear just as he had our range good. This leads me to think he did not quit from choice, but from necessity."

Secretary Daniels has commended Groves for his zeal and efficiency.

WOMAN WOULD GO TO SENATE

Anne Martin Suffragist, Enters Race in Nevada.

Washington, March 4—A woman seeks election to the United States Senate to complete the unexpired term of the late Senator Newlands of Nevada. She is Miss Anne Martin of Reno, vice chairman of the National suffragist and one time tennis champion of her state for three years.

Miss Martin mentions specifically in her platform the development of land in the interests of the people, the conservation of water power, the elimination of "long established railway discrimination against Nevada in freight rates, and protection by federal agents of seasonal farm labor and its transfer from region to region in the interest of both the farmer and the laborer."

ROUMANIA IN NEW ARMISTICE

Ready to Treat for Peace on Teuton Terms.

Vienna, March 4—The last official statement said:

"The armistice with Roumania has come to an end. The Roumanian government has declared itself ready to enter upon a fresh armistice preparatory to negotiations in connection with peace parleys on the basis of conditions fixed by the Central powers."

THREE COUNTRIES MAY TURN

Norway, Spain and Argentina May Come Out Against Kaiser.

Washington, March 4—Norway as well as Spain and Argentina, within a very short time, may be definitely aligned against Germany.

Advices which have reached Washington during the last few days were summed up into this probability when they were compared side by side. High officials admit that this contingency is full of the greatest importance in the political conduct of the war.

Robert Trent, son of George Trent, who was employed by the Kenicott mine near McCarthy, in Valdez, Alaska showed friends a copy of the McCarthy Weekly News. A headed article states that "Front Street is Booming." The McCarthy drug store got new fixtures, the Alaskan, Golden and Ketterer buildings are being remodelled and the Alaskan billiard hall boasts a new tonsorial artist imported from the States and a cracker-jack at the trade.

Dry wood is selling at $8 a cord, which is only $1.50 a cord more than Crow Wing county farmers want for tamarack hauled to Brainerd.

Single copies of the paper sell for 25c and the subscription price is $5 a year. The paper is four columns and measures 12 inches long by 9 inches wide.

An editorial headed "It's Hard on the Old Timer," comments on the arrest and fining of three pioneer prospectors who have founded several camps and who had a little mountain sheep in their possession and drew $15 fines. It compares the old timers with a party of tourist head hunters, traveling in luxury, who brought down nine moose, twelve sheep and fourteen caribou heads, all of which were undoubtedly from picked animals, and to secure these splendid specimens over five tons of meat was slaughtered and left there to rot. It seemed hard to give the heavy end of the log to the old time prospector and let the head hunter from the outside prove hogs when it came to meat conservation.

A column is devoted to the Red Cross in the paper. There is carried a good line of ads. Mention is made of Charley O'Connor who took the train for Fort Liscum to enlist. "We know him to be an A1 drummer and hope he beats H— out of the Huns," says the News.

The Alaskan Brotherhood is flourishing. Society items mention the A. B.'s farewell dance to Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Foster, a turkey dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Marshall, the 500 party at the home of Mrs. McFaddis, and Mildred Erickson's party.

TEUTON TROOPS TO FINLAND

Aland Island to Be Used as Base, Report Says.

London, March 4—Germany is sending troops to Finland, says an official statement issued at Stockholm. Reuter's correspondent at the Swedish capital reports. The Aland Islands will be used as a temporary base of operations, the statement adds.

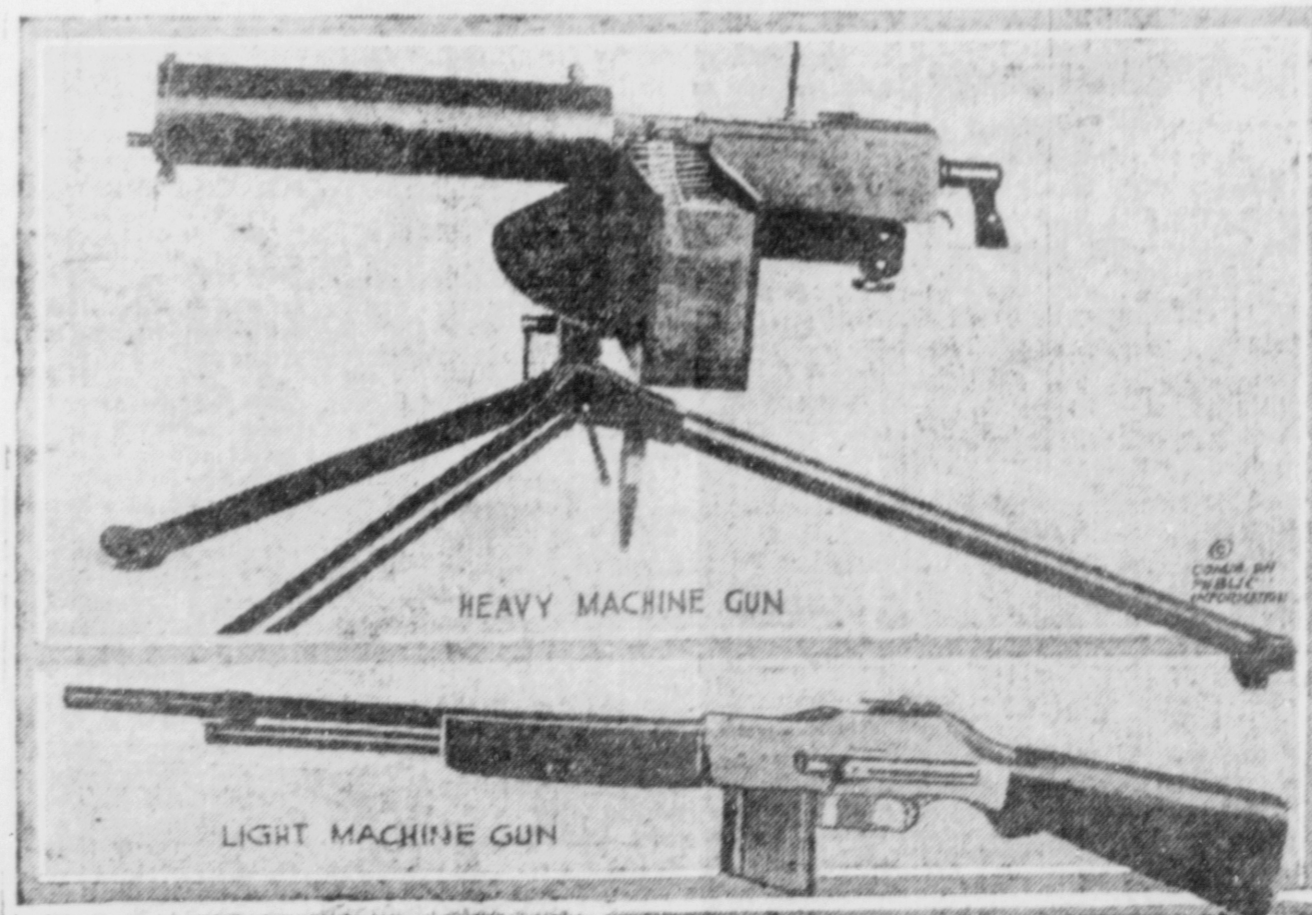

Americans Kill Mexican Soldier.

El Paso, Tex., March 4—A Mexican Federal soldier was killed opposite Rocky Ford, five miles east of here by American soldiers, it has become known.

Suspect Taken in Alien Plot.

Salt Lake City, Utah, March 4—A plot to release the German aliens at the war prison barracks at Fort Douglas and to destroy public buildings in Salt Lake City, has been revealed, the police believe, through the arrest of Frank Dimok, alias Peterson, a German subject, at the police station. The arrest was effected when Dimok applied for his registration card. In Dimok's possession were found a secret code, a map of Salt Lake City, with arrows pointing toward Fort Douglas and the capitol.

First Photographs of Browning Machine Guns

The Browning machine gun, the heavier and the lighter, were tested successfully in Washington. The heavier gun, which is shot from a tripod, had in a previous government test fired 39,600 shots without a break. In another test it fired 20,000 shots in 48 minutes and 18 seconds. It weighs thirty-four and a half pounds with the water jacket for cooling purposes filled. The lighter gun, which is fired from the shoulder or hip, like a rifle, weighs fifteen pounds. It fired twenty shots in 2 1/2 seconds.

Worst Winter in Years.
Snow, wind and extreme cold caused more colds this winter than in years. Foley's Honey and Tar proved its worth in thousands of homes. Mrs. Edward Strevy, R. 37, Clinton, O., says: "I think Foley's Honey and Tar is the only medicine for coughs and colds and recommend it highly." Fine for children. H. P. Dunn, druggist.

HOME TOWN HELPS

TREE PLANTING NEEDS CARE
Appearance of Grounds as Important as House Plans, Interior Decorations or Furnishings.

White house plans, interior decorations and furniture play a prominent part in the life of the new home builder, care of the grounds about the house should likewise be given consideration, particularly as regards the planting of trees to firm up the general appearance of the house.

In tree planting great care, foresight and judgment are required, says a landscape artist. The selection of young trees, their proper setting apart and their care after planting make beautiful grounds possible. In shade tree planting as in the construction of a building, the plan for the completed work should be determined in advance, for the tree planter must picture to himself how his work will look a great number of years later and with him it rests whether the result is to be one of satisfaction or regret.

In making selections one must bear in mind that the tree must possess certain characteristics to be desirable. In the first place it must be hardy, capable of withstanding unfavorable conditions of city life such as poor soil, drought, smoke, gas, heat and dust, easily transplanted and propagated. It must have a straight stem, a rounded well filled head, well developed roots and be symmetrical in growth. They must to a great degree be immune from insect pests, retain their foliage in good condition through the summer until late fall and be clean in their habits of growth. The ideal shade tree must also be of medium growth and long lived. The desirability of developing good-sized shade trees as soon as possible after planting is admitted, and it is unfortunate that the trees growing most rapidly are the most undesirable.

NEVER TOO SOON TO BEGIN
Start is All That is Necessary in Planning House That One Some Day Is Going to Build.

There are two kinds of people who are interested in the question of building houses: Those who have built one house and live in it, and those who are living in some one's else house. A pretty comprehensive statement, but really, who isn't interested in the matter of building a home?

Jones has a house of his own, and he is concerned with the thing he possesses, says an exchange. Smith, who owns no house, is concerned with something he lacks. Jones is homesick only when he is away from home. Smith can never be homesick in any place other than his home. Jones is an owner, a master, a liege lord of lands and all that is therein. Smith is a tenant, a payer of rent, a slave of tribute. Jones dwells on the right side of the door. Smith is eternally wishing that he did.

It is never too soon to begin planning that house which some day you are going to want to build. It is never too soon, but sometimes too late, to save

WOMAN'S REALM

NEW COAT OF MAIL

Entire Tunics of Tarnished Silver.
Dropped From Neck to Knees.

Warrior-Like Corsage Is Embroidered
With Pearls, Brilliants and Flashes of Steel—Jewel Headdress.

Not only Cheruit, but many other French dressmakers, have lent their ear to making a pronounced fashion out of silver tissue. Two years ago, observes a prominent writer, we grew excessively weary of evening gowns made of superimposed pieces of tulle on a metallic foundation, and when the thought of silver and gold tissue presents itself as a fashion, we turn away from it in a petulant manner.

But wait! This revival of a coat of mail for women, the warrior's uniform of ancient days which no modern fighter would touch, is another and a more pleasing thing than the evening gown of metallic cloth.

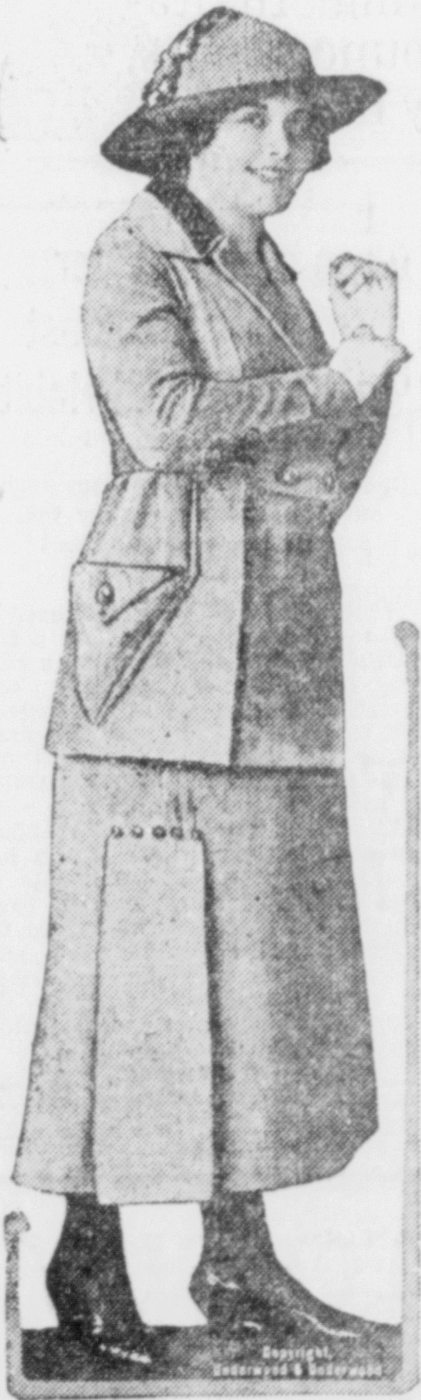

Entire tunics, in the twelfth century fashion, are made of tarnished silver dropped from neck to knees, or longer, over skirts of blood red or mid-night blue satin or velvet. Except for the costliness of the material, the tunics have all the simplicity of primitive dressing. Their introduction into the early spring fashions has brought about a quantity of silver used in every way.

Mme. Simone of the Theater Antoine in Paris, is wearing, I hear, a wonderful gown which is being copied for this country. It is of silver cloth faced with red, hanging in panels on the ground over a slim, tight skirt that clings to the figure as she walks. The warrior-like corsage is embroidered with pearls, brilliants and flashes of cut steel. To it she adds a warrior's headdress made of the same jewels as in the corsage and mounted on silver cloth.

Wherever silver can be flicked in and out of a frock to enliven it, the designer loses no chance of trying out her ingenuity through this channel. When she abandons the Russian blouse of gold and bronze metallic cloth, which drops over a skirt of bronze satin, she takes the same material and uses it in bands, cuffs and high, wrinkled collars that enclose the chin like a fence.

It is a strange idea, this bringing out of a new coat of mail for women as the spring approaches. Is it a recognition of their first victory toward suffrage and the fact that they may be counted as warriors today in civic, national and war work?

ATTRACTIVE SPORTS COSTUME

This is just the suit for the girl who is going gunning for beaux, for it is well equipped with holster pockets. Of course she won't need a gun. The whole effect of this tasty costume is one of readiness for sport. It is fashioned of durable jade dress corduroy that will stand up under the severest usages. A collar faced with French blue satin and Norfolk straps on the jacket complete the costume.

Fancy Coatees for House.

Very becoming over a black or some dark-hued frock is a black chiffon cloth or marquisette coatee pouched in sacklike manner just above a high waistline and edged with the whitest and flimsiest swansdown.

FAIR EXCHANGE IN TRENCHES

Wealthy "Poilu" Handed Out Hundred-Franc Notes and Poorer Comrade Furnished Merriment.

Soldiers of the same age, fighting side by side, a Frenchwoman says in her "Notes on the War," may be of very different social classes, but often become the closest friends.

She tells this story in illustration of the fact. A very merry young soldier entertained his companions in the "dugout" most delightfully by his irrepressible joviality. One day his spirits failed. Asked the reason by one of his mates, he said: "In ordinary life I am a clown in a music hall. It's my business to make people laugh. But today I got a letter from my wife telling of the illness of our two children. She can't go out to work, and things look black. That's why I don't joke today."

A few days later the same inquirer said, "Comrade, you're merry again. What's happened?" "Why, a letter from my Louise says a man called and handed her three hundred-franc notes from his client, M. Jean Breton; so things are bright again for us. But who can M. Breton be?" The other man was silent, but finally spoke. "Don't worry, comrade. I am Jean Breton. I'm rich enough to afford it. Now sing us one of your comic songs, please!"

British Humor.

The number of consulting physicians in England has become so reduced as a result of mobilization and overwork on the part of those not called to active duty, owing to age, etc., that invalids and those subject to everyday maladies are requested to refrain from sending for the doctor for "every little ache and pain," this privilege being permitted only in extreme cases.

"It is desired that the public in general, in order to simplify medical services, take the greatest care possible in order to prevent carelessly contracting diseases that require long, difficult and expensive courses of treatment."

"It will be a proof of patriotism on the part of everyone during the war to content themselves with the less serious complaints, such as influenza, neuralgia, headache and hysteria, these latter being easily relieved by means of a few cheery words."

The above is the advice found in an English newspaper. Americans should profit by this advice.

DECLARE FOR THRIFT

Direct From the Farm.

Nor will the world be quite as good as it ought to be as long as the fresh-faced and ingenious-looking country women drive into town early in the morning and stock up on cold-storage eggs and chickens at the places at which such things are purchased before starting out on their rounds and selling their produce direct from farm to consumer; and we have some evidence that this is a more or less common practice now.—Ohio State Journal.

They Sure Would.

Homer V. Winn was talking before the Indianapolis Advertisers' club about salesmanship, recently, and commented on the fact that salespeople were too often unnatural.

"Even the merchant himself is often unnatural," the speaker said. "He does not act in his store as he does at home."

"And if some of them did," commented one of the women members of the club, "they'd drive their last customer away."

Fur Trimmings and Pieces.

Just now it is with fur that the most effective suits and coats are trimmed, and nothing is at once so comfy, rich and becoming at this time of year. A very simple costume takes on an air of style with fur fixings, whether these are attached or take the more practical form of separate sets. People who have cleverly waited, writes a New York fashion correspondent, to make their selection of furs have unusual advantages this year, not only in price, but in the assortment, which remains practically unbroken. On display the other day were seen some of the best imported pieces at one-third of the prices earlier in the season. The foxes remained in fascinating array, ranging in all tones from pure white, tawpes, browns and grays, to sets of the glossy black that are the most becoming of any dark furs. One advantage of fox furs is that they remain available nearly the year round and are fashionably worn when heavier-looking pelts are laid by.

NEED MORE OF LATTER

Allies Make Increased Demand for Foodstuffs and Change Is Expected to Curtail Consumption of Cereal.

Washington, March 4.—The food administration announces a temporary suspension of the meatless meal and of the special restrictions against the use of pork on Saturdays, as a readjustment of its food conservation program. Increased meat production and the necessity for still greater saving in wheat, it is declared, make the change advisable.

Since all restrictions on consumption of mutton and lamb had been lifted previously the administration now asks the public for the time being to deny itself only beef and pork on one day a week—Tuesday.

Increased meat consumption, officials believe will itself curtail the use of wheat and for the present there is no intention to add to the restrictions already in force against the use of flour.

More Wheat Needed.

In a statement Food Administrator Hoover said:

"The Allies have made further and increased demands for foodstuffs, these enlarged demands being caused to some degree by shortage in arrivals from the Argentine. It is, therefore, necessary to urge a still further reduction in the consumption of bread and breadstuffs generally, if we are to meet our export necessities."

"Experience shows that the consumption of breadstuffs is intimately associated with the consumption of meat. For various reasons our supplies of meat for the next two or three months are considerably enlarged and we can supply the Allies with all of the meat products which transportation facilities render possible and at the same time somewhat increase our own consumption. In these circumstances, the administration considers it wise to relax the voluntary restrictions on meat consumption to some extent with a view to further decreasing bread consumption."

Tuesday Still Meatless.

"So long as the present conditions continue the only special restrictions we ask are the beefless and porkless Tuesday."

"The meatless meal and the porkless Saturday are no longer asked."

Chicago, March 4.—Henry H. Lippert and his son, Ralph H. Lippert, manufacturers' agents arrested for alleged payments to Brigadier General Cruse, U. S. A., retired, in connection with aid in army contracts, have been released on $10,000 bonds each.

The elder Lippert absolved General Cruse of wrongdoing although he admitted he paid General Cruse $300 a month to take care of the Lippert interests in Washington.

"Everyone in Washington knew General Cruse was employed by me," he said. "Formal notice to this effect was sent to the Quartermaster's department and others connected with army contracts. He never got a single contract for us."

To make certain he was not violating the law before he accepted my position, General Cruse received permission of the judge advocate general to accept the money."

FOURTH CAMPS FOR OFFICERS

To Be Opened in May, But Locations Not Yet Decided.

Washington, March 4.—The fourth group of officers' training camps will open early in May, it has been learned. Only men from the ranks of the army will be accepted.

The number to be trained has not yet been decided, nor the location of camps. It is probable, however, that 20,000 men will receive instructions in 20 divisional camps.

The problem of supplying enough officers for all the branches of the service is pressing. The demands of such branches as aviation, ordnance, signal corps and others have been such that scores of officers have been transferred almost daily to fill up those services.

Chicago, March 4.—John F. The conviction of seven business associates of Jelke also was upheld. Francis M. Lowry, general manager, must serve a year in the federal prison and pay a $5,000 fine.

ANNOUNCING UNCLE SAM'S SPECIAL SERVICE FOR HOME GARDENERS AND CANNERS

To help YOU produce food in YOUR own garden during the coming spring and summer the Brainerd Dispatch will publish a series of official, practical gardening directions. This illustrated series, "Food From Your Backyard," has been prepared by the gardening specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. The articles will be brief, yet complete; interesting, and yet simple enough for a child to enjoy and to apply. While conveying many new ideas to experienced gardeners, these talks will be designed particularly to help those with little or no gardening experience to make the most of their home food plots. They will tell how to handle new or previously cultivated plots, what, how much and when to plant, how to get successive crops and obtain maximum yields.

As these war gardens come into production a series of official articles on home canning and drying, prepared by Uncle Sam's home food preserving specialists, will be published. It is suggested that after reading these articles, everyone interested in home gardening and canning cut them out and paste them on cards or in a scrapbook. These clippings will make a thoroughly reliable household guide for the home food producers and conservers of Brainerd and vicinity.

NEXT LOAN DRIVE

A. R. Rogers, of Minneapolis, chairman of the Liberty Loan Committee for the Ninth Federal Reserve District, has informed Carl Zapffe, of Brainerd, that the latter has been appointed chairman for Crow Wing county. The request is made to immediately organize the county and prepare for the next loan drive beginning April 6th.

The conditions for the next loan are still unknown. It is suspected as likely that five billion dollars will be asked for and bearing interest at 4 1/2 per cent, but this is purely speculative. Mr. Zapffe succeeds A. J. Hayes, of Crosby, who declined to serve again. Mr. Hayes was most successful in his work and it is regretted that he could not be induced to lead the drive once more. Judging by the methods used by Mr. Zapffe in previous campaigns conducted under his direction, many citizens will find themselves impressed into service, and every man in the county will be approached to buy bonds.

By placing War Saving Stamps on sale at each of its 68 service huts in the 20 military centers of the central military department the Army Y. M. C. A. is actively engaged in the promotion of thrift among the soldiers and in aiding the government in financing its war program, according to an announcement received here. Already, it is stated, the 300,000 enlisted men mobilized in the middle west are responding generously to the appeal of the government to take their share of War Saving Stamps, even though a large majority of them have invested in Liberty bonds and government insurance, on which they are still making payments.

ABOUT JACK LONDON

The Dispatch is running a number of the short stories of Jack London, close hand pictures of the virile life of the North. They possess a peculiar appeal because, unlike many of the romancers of these days who write from the seclusion of a steam heated flat, London went through the experiences of the Alaskan country and knows about what he wrote.

That's why his name is a household name in Alaska and in the Scandinavian countries of the same latitude. Whether the locale shifts to Dawson, Bonanza creek, Forty Mile, Circle City, Stewart River, the tidal flats of Nome, London was there.

Some went to that great country and came back "broke." Others are fringed about Dawson, Circle, etc., "broke" and too proud to return and attempt to wrest a fortune from the States. London made no great "strike" as a miner, but he brought back a perfect mine of experiences which he converted into imperishable literature.

SHELL SLAYS SAMMIES

Foe Makes Direct Hit With Fatal Results.

Missile Strikes Half-Ruined House Where Americans Were Sheltered.

With the American Army in France, March 4.—Shell fragments, when the Germans scored a direct hit on a half-ruined house in a village just behind the American lines killed several American soldiers and wounded several.

American patrols were sent out in the night to bring in and bury the dead, including Germans—lying in the barbed wire in No Man's land, victims of the battle resulting from the German raid.

Germans Claim Success. Amsterdam, March 4.—Complete success in the attacks made upon the American troops along the French front is claimed in the German semi-official supplementary war report relating to the fighting from March 1 to 3.

The report says: "Northeast of Seicheprey our storm troops gained a complete success against the Americans. After a brief, strong preparatory fire, our troops here penetrated the enemy's position to a depth of 500 meters. They rapidly broke the American resistance, returning with 12 prisoners and two machine guns.

"The losses of the Americans were extraordinarily high in the brief preparatory bombardment."

WESTERN RAIL ORDER READY

Passenger Traffic to Be Cut to Bare Necessity.

Washington, March 4.—The west must soon diminish its passenger travel. It will have fewer passenger trains and what it has won't be luxurious.

Plans awaiting full endorsement of Director General W. G. McAdoo call for even more drastic scaling of non-essential traffic than in eastern territory, railroad administration officials say.

Cutting competing passenger service between Chicago, Minneapolis, St. Louis and Kansas City, and between virtually all other large cities west of the Mississippi is part of a tremendous program to increase the freight movement and save needless expense.

Passenger lines, it is indicated, will be stripped to the bare minimum of actual necessities. Trains that do run will run to full capacity—not with lower berths snugly filled and uppers empty, and not with partly occupied parlor cars.

ALLIES MAY LET JAPS ACT ALONE

Indications Point to Agreement to Consent to Mikado's Troops Entering Siberia.

SLAV PEACE SPURS PLAN

Quick Conclusion of Negotiations Expected Since Russ Agreement With Kaiser for Cessation of Hostilities.

Washington, March 4.—A quick conclusion of negotiations among the Allies and the United States over steps to be taken in Siberia to protect military stores there and check any move the Germans may make in that direction, is expected as one of the immediate effects of the signing of Germany's peace terms by the Russian Bolshevik representatives.

There is every indication that the American government will join with the Allies in agreeing to action by Japan alone, with the understanding as to the scope of any operations to be undertaken. So far there has been no announcement of an agreement, but even before the news that the Russians formally had accepted the Germans terms came, it was understood that the exchanges on the subject were about concluded.

President Wilson has been following the situation in Russian very closely, particularly because of its close relation to the important step proposed by Japan. There have been suggestions that he might appear before Congress soon to make a statement on the subject, although no one professes to know his plans.

Japan Rushes Plans. Tokyo, March 4.—Important conferences were held by high government officials here looking to the final adoption of an Allied policy in Siberia, particularly the part Japan will play in any military or diplomatic actions which may be taken.

No agreement was reached, but negotiations with the Allied powers and the nations associated with them in the prosecution of the war against the Teutonic allies are being feverishly rushed to a conclusion under spur of the tense situation at Vladivostok and other Siberian ports.

NINE AMERICANS ARE KILLED

North Dakota Private Slain and Minnesota Wounded.

Washington, March 4.—Five Americans, including Second Lieut. Harold P. Eadie, of Tilton, N. H., were killed, five were severely wounded and four slightly wounded in the fight with the Germans north of Toul on March 1, the War department announces.

Those killed besides the lieutenant were: Sergeant Anthony Amodei, Baltimore, Md.; Privates Edgar Parsons, Obids, N. C.; Henry J. Henry, Logansport, Ind.; and Mathew Brew, Fayette, N. D.

The department also announces the following killed in action: Sergeant Joseph P. Chaisson, Derby, Me., February 24; Corporal Eph Boggs, Red Jacket, W. Va., March 2; Private Hugh Weatherman, Beaman, Ia., March 2; and Cook Thomas S. Hardesty, El Paso, Tex., February 28.

Those severely wounded March 1 were: Corporal Elliott Fortner, Heroin, Ill.; Privates Isaac Howard, Evans, Ky.; Roy E. Ness, R. F. D., No. 3, Duluth, Minn.; Reuben J. Finkle, Highland, Mont.; and Cook Glen H. Work, Overt, Neb.

This name appears on the last list: Killed in action: G. Prummer, Oranoco, Minn.

SOCIALISTS CHEER WILSON

Indorse War As Result of Teuton Russian Invasion.

New York, March 4.—The first tangible evidence of a revision in feeling toward pro-German pacifism among radicals in America as the result of the Prussian invasion of Russia was manifested at a great gathering of socialists here.

The audience cheered the war and Woodrow Wilson and adopted almost unanimously a demand that all socialists of America unite in support of the war as the only practicable means of saving ideals of democracy from Teutonic obliteration.

Kaiser Buys Heavily in Krupps.

Geneva, March 4.—Bankers who have recently returned from Frankfurt, says that Emperor William, who has been a large stockholder in Krupps, has bought shares amounting to nearly a million pounds sterling since the war began.

Must Entertain Soldiers.

Washington, March 4.—Representative Miller of Minnesota, who visited the battle fronts in France last year, told the House that the United States must make provision for the entertainment of its soldiers when on leave from the trenches. France and Great Britain, he said, have recognized the necessity of allowing their soldiers to go home whenever requirements will permit, and added that because they can make frequent visits home they are more contented than the Canadians, Australians and others.

CONGRESS BACKS ADMINISTRATION

QUICKLY RESPONDS TO PRESIDENT'S REQUESTS FOR LEGISLATION TO CARRY ON WAR.

TALK ABOUT THINGS PAST

Most of Debate in Congress Is Retrospective — Government Ownership Bobs Up—Western Land Restored to Public Entry by Secretary Lane.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington. — President Wilson ought to be well satisfied with the manner in which congress responds to his requests for legislation to carry on the war. Sometimes he does not get the bills in just exactly the form he would like them, but the amendments which congress makes to the various administration measures are of very little importance on the whole. For instance, the senate did not pass the railroad bill just as Secretary McAdoo wanted it, although it was generally satisfactory to the president and most of the changes made in that measure from the original administration draft had been sanctioned by the president. In conference, however, it is quite likely that the bill will be made even more satisfactory to the president and the director general of railroads.

Progress is being made with other measures, such as the great financial bill proposed by Secretary McAdoo, and even the more drastic food regulation bill, so that take it all in all, congress is going ahead without having much friction with the administration.

Naturally there were references to government ownership and government operation of business during the discussion of the railroad bill. Rather sharp criticisms were made at some things the government had done since the war began, notably the alleged scandals regarding the Hog Island shipping base. It was Senator Sherman of Illinois who vehemently declared that the only satisfactory government work that had ever been performed was the construction of the Panama canal. Even that aroused a comment, Senator Curtis of Kansas, interjecting the remark that when the Panama canal was first started the cost was to be $110,000,000; subsequently it was increased to $250,000,000; and the final cost was $500,000,000.

"And let me say," remarked Senator King of Utah, who is opposed to government ownership and control of business, "that the work is not yet completed."

"And it never will be so long as the canal passes through an area where earthquakes occur from time to time," was a remark interjected by Senator Smith of Michigan.

Naturally the inquiry has been made whether it was not a waste of time to discuss and vote upon a proposition of erecting a statue in Washington to James Buchanan, who was president of the United States just before the Civil war.

It was thought a quarter of a century ago that only the members of Civil war strife remained in this country, but the debate over the Buchanan statue showed that the 55 years since that great struggle ended has not been sufficient to entirely eradicate the bitterness of sectional feeling which was implanted in the blood of Americans before, during, and long after that war.

One effect of the war has been the speeding up of those who had charge of examining and segregating agricultural lands in the various forest reserves. Western men will be pleased to know that Secretary Lane is restoring to public entry quite a large quantity of these lands as fast as it is found that they are more valuable for agricultural purposes than forest purposes. These lands will be taken up very quickly by settlers, as most of them within the forest reserves are much superior to the great quantity of land still open to settlement. These farms ought to be available within two years as an aid to the food supply so much needed in this country.

Much of the debate in congress relates to what Uncle Joe Cannon describes as "water which has already gone over the wheel," meaning that it is retrospective rather than directed at question immediately before the country and which are to be settled in the near future. Perhaps it is natural for men to talk about the things that have gone before, and generally they know more about such subjects than about what may happen in the future.

Those in charge of what may be called welfare work about the various camps are certainly doing their best to amuse and instruct the soldiers. The camp training commission is furnishing entertainments, sports, etc., while the Y. M. C. A. is furnishing reading rooms and good literature for the men who have been called out. The people who are doing this good work for the soldiers are very anxious that the parents, relatives and friends of the soldiers shall know that everything possible is being done to make the life of the boys in the various camps enjoyable.

Sir George said that there was not a word of truth in this report. Doubtless Nicholas had much to answer for, he remarked, but he would never have betrayed the cause of the Allies.

Mooney will not petition the state supreme court to reconsider its affirmation of the death sentence against him for participation in a bomb explosion here, but will appeal directly to the governor for a pardon. Mooney's appeal for a new trial was denied by the state supreme court Friday on the ground that there was no reversible error in the record of his trial.

Barges to Foil U-Boats.

If actual trials prove the scheme to be practicable, it is understood that in order to check the depredations of the enemy's U-boats, immense oceangoing barges towed by powerful armed tugs, may be used instead of steamships for transporting freight through the submarine zones. Long, low-sitting, enclosed craft of steel construction will be tested. Crews being unnecessary, the barges are to be decked a few inches above the water line so that from a distance they will be practically invisible to a periscope. As is perhaps generally known, a tub, because of its small size and comparatively shallow draft, offers a torpedo a poor target. In a gun duel, should a U-boat risk a fight, the tug would have nearly an even break with the enemy.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Sailor's Joke.

A naval officer told a sea story at a banquet. "Sailors have a strong sense of humor," he said. "A certain young sailor was just back from a nine-months cruise. He celebrated his return in a great many bars, and when the last bar closed he danced down the street with his pockets filled with bottles of beer, and waving a bottle in either hand above his head. 'Boys,' he said, 'it's disgraceful what I'm going to say for a sailor, but it's the truth—I have a horror of water.'"

Glass of Hot Water Before Breakfast a Splendid Habit

Open sluices of the system each morning and wash away the poisonous, stagnant matter.

Those of us who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when we arise; splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, lame back, can, instead, both look and feel as fresh as a daisy always by washing the poisons and toxins from the body with phosphated hot water each morning.

We should drink, before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to flush from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary tract before putting more food into the stomach.

The action of limestone phosphate and hot water on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast and it is said to be but a little while until the roses begin to appear in the cheeks. A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will cost very little at the drug store, but is sufficient to make anyone who is bothered with biliousness, constipation, stomach trouble or rheumatism a real enthusiast on the subject of internal sanitation. Try it and you are assured that you will look better and feel better in every way shortly.

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

If you have a bad taste in your mouth, tongue coated, appetite poor, lazy, don't care feeling, no ambition or energy, troubled with undigested foods, you should take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief, so you can eat what you like. At 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

Harsh Parallel.

"Remember when we were kids? Remember you liked to play with me better than with anybody else?" The millionaire was not effusive. "We have queer tastes when we're young," he observed. "I remember I used to like to play with toads."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

RUSSIANS SIGN GERMAN PEACE

Slavs Give Way Fearing More Onerous Conditions Would Follow Further Delay.

TURKS SHARE IN SPOILS

Berlin Claims That Military Movements in Great Russia Have Ceased—Little Information as to Details of Meeting.

Petrograd, March 4.—A German airman bombed various parts of the city. Three persons were killed and five wounded. The material damage was unimportant. The peace treaty with Germany has been signed.

The Ukrainian army has occupied Kiev, Gomel and Berdichev. Take 65,000 Russians.

Berlin, March 4.—The Germans in their advance through Russia have captured, according to the official communication from General headquarters, 6,800 officers and 57,000 men, 2,400 guns, 5,000 machine guns, thousands of motor vehicles, 800 locomotives and thousands of railroad trucks.

Treaty Is Signed.

London, March 4.—According to an official statement from Berlin Russia has bowed to the Teutonic allies. The Bolshevik commissioners sent to Brest-Litovsk have signed the treaty of peace presented by the Germans. The statement adds that military movements in East Russia have now ceased.

At the same time reports from Poland by the way of Amsterdam, say Leon Trotsky, the Bolshevik foreign minister, did not return to the peace conference at Brest-Litovsk because Germany objected to his continuance as a Russian delegate. It is stated that Trotsky's resignation will be forthcoming as a result.

Signed Without Discussion.

It was reported by the Bolshevik commissioners that they were about to sign the treaty. This report was telegraphed to Lenin and Trotsky after the delegates sent to Brest-Litovsk had met the German emissaries.

There is little information available as to the details of the meeting between the peace delegations, but the Bolsheviks said they realized that any further delay would mean more onerous conditions, and they would sign the treaty without further discussions.

Turkey was the beneficiary of the changes in the peace terms. The new demands included that Russia relinquish the regions of Batoun, Kars and Karabagh (Karabagh) to the Turks. These regions are in Transcaucasia and a considerable addition to the sultan's dominion in that section of the world.

ROOSEVELT MAY BE DEAF

Physicians Fear Hearing in One Ear Is Gone.

New York, March 4.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt, who has been a patient at Roosevelt hospital, will leave the hospital and take up quarters in a hotel, where it is expected he will remain for several days, and then, if his convalescence continues, he will go to his home in Oyster Bay.

At the hospital fear was expressed that he may be permanently deaf in his left ear. Col. Roosevelt has expressed his determination to fill speaking engagements in Maine on March 28, and his physicians say they believe he will be able to do so, providing he exercises due caution.

TO NORWAY BY WIRELESS

U. S. Communication Established—Distance 3,300 Miles.

Christiania, March 4.—A new wireless station just erected at Stavanger has succeeded in communicating easily with American stations, during trial. Regular trans-Atlantic service between Norway and the United States will be started whenever the American government grants permission. Stavanger is on an inlet of the North Sea, on the west coast of Norway, 100 miles south of Bergen. From Stavanger to the nearest American soil is about 3,300 miles.

Henderson Appointed Senator.

Reno, Nev., March 4.—Charles B. Henderson has been appointed United States Senator by Governor Boyle to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Francis D. Newlands. Senator Henderson's appointment carries until the general election next November. Anne Martin's candidacy is in opposition to Henderson's election.

Profiteers to Lose U. S. Posters.

Minneapolis, March 4.—Food administration posters will be removed from stores found charging excessive prices for food, it is announced by A. D. Wilson, federal food administrator for Minnesota. This will be done under instructions from Washington, which require also that the name of the offending merchant be reported to Washington headquarters for further action. Agents under Mr. Wilson are checking up merchants in Minnesota to get the names of those not displaying the food administration posters.

The Wife of a King

A Metamorphosis of the Gold Country of the Far North

By JACK LONDON

Copyright by Jack London

IN the Northland, when the Northland was very young, the social and civic virtues were remarkable alike for their paucity and their simplicity. When the burden of domestic duties grew grievous, and the fireside mood expanded to a constant protest against its bleak loneliness, the adventurers from the Southland, in lieu of better, paid the stipulated prices and took unto themselves native wives. It was a foretaste of paradise to the women, for it must be confessed that the white rovers gave far better care and treatment to them than did their Indian co-partners. Of course, the white men themselves were satisfied with such deals, as were also the Indian men for that matter. Having sold their daughters and sisters for cotton blankets and obsolete rifles, and traded their warm furs for flimsy calico and bad whisky, the sons of the soil promptly and cheerfully succumbed to quick consumption and other swift diseases correlated with the blessings of a superior civilization.

It was in these days of Arcadian simplicity that Cal Galbraith journeyed through the land and fell sick on the Lower river. It was a refreshing advent in the lives of the good Sisters of the Holy Cross, who gave him shelter and medicine. Cal Galbraith became troubled with strange thoughts, which clamored for attention till he laid eyes on the Mission girl, Madeline. Yet he gave no sign, biding his time patiently. He strengthened with the coming spring, and when the sun rode the heavens in a golden circle, and the joy and throbs of life were in all the land, he gathered his still weak body together and departed.

Now Madeline, the mission girl, was an orphan. Her white father had failed to give a bald-faced grizzly the trail one day, and had died quickly. Then her Indian mother, having no man to fill the winter cache, had tried the hazardous experiment of waiting till the salmon run on fifty pounds of flour and half as many of bacon. After that the baby, Chook-en, went to live with the good sisters, and to be thenceforth known by another name.

But Madeline still had kinsfolk, the nearest being a dissolute uncle who outraged his vitals with inordinate quantities of the white man's whisky. He strove daily to walk with the gods, and incidentally his feet sought shorter trails to the grave. When sober he suffered exquisite torture. He had no conscience. To this ancient vagabond Cal Galbraith duly presented himself, and they consumed many words and much tobacco in the conversation that followed. Promises were also made; and in the end the old heathen took a few pounds of dried salmon and his birch-bark canoe, and paddled away to the Mission of the Holy Cross.

It is not given the world to know what promises he made and what lies he told—the sisters never gossip; but when he returned, upon his swarthy chest there was a brass crucifix, and in his canoe his niece Madeline. That night there was a grand wedding and a potluch; so that for two days to follow there was no fishing done by the village. But in the morning Madeline shook the dust of the Lower river from her mooseskins, and with her husband, in a polling boat, went to live on the Upper river in a place known as the Lower Country. And in the years which followed she was a good wife, sharing her husband's hardships and cooking his food. And she kept him in straight trails, till he learned to save his dust and to work mightily. In the end, he struck it rich, and built a cabin in Circle City; and his happiness was such that men who came to visit him in his home circle became restless at the sight of it and envied him greatly.

But the Northland began to mature, and social amenities to make their appearance. Hitherto, the Southland had sent forth its sons; but it now belched forth a new exodus, this time of its daughters. They did not fail to put new ideas in the heads of the men, and to elevate the tone of things in ways peculiarly their own. No more did the squaws gather at the dances, go roaring down the center in the good, old Virginia reels, or make merry with Jolly "Dan Tucker." They fell back on their native stoicism, and uncomplainingly watched the rule of their white sisters from the cabins.

Then another exodus came over the mountains from the prolific Southland. This time it was of women that became mighty in the land. They frowned upon the Indian wives, while the other women became mild and walked humbly. There were cowards who became ashamed of their ancient covenants with the daughters of the soil, who looked with a new distaste upon their dark-skinned children; but there were also others—men—who remained true and proud of their aboriginal vows. When it became the fashion to divorce the native wives, Cal Galbraith retained his manhood, and in so doing felt the heavy hand of the women who had come last, knew least, but who ruled the land.

One day, the Upper Country, which lies far above Circle City, was pronounced rich. Dog teams carried the news to Salt Water; golden argosies freighted the lure across the North Pacific; wires and cables sang with the tidings; and the world heard for the first time of the Klondike river and the Yukon country.

Cal Galbraith had lived the years quietly. He had then been a good husband to Madeline, and she had blessed him. But somehow discontent fell upon him; he felt vague yearnings for his own kind; for the life he had been shut out from—a general sort of desire, which men sometimes feel, to break out and taste the prime of living. Besides, there drifted down the river wild rumors of the wonderful Eldorado, glowing descriptions of the city of logs and tents, and ludicrous accounts of the che-chi-quas who had rushed in and were stampeding the whole country. Circle City was dead. The world had moved on up river and become a new and most marvelous world.

Cal Galbraith grew restless on the edge of things, and wished to see with his own eyes. So, after the wash up, he weighed in a couple of hundred pounds of dust on the company's big scales, and took a draft for the same on Dawson. Then he put Tom Dixon in charge of his mines, kissed Madeline good-by, promised to be back before the first mush-ice ran, and took passage on an up-river steamer.

Madeline waited—waited through all the three months of daylight. She fed the dogs, gave much of her time to young Cal, watched the short summer fade away and the sun begin its long journey to the south. And she prayed much in the manner of the Sisters of the Holy Cross. The fall came, and with it there was mush-ice on the Yukon, and Circle City kings returning to the winter's work at their mines, but no Cal Galbraith. Tom Dixon received a letter, however, for his men shodded up her winter's supply of dry pine. The company received a letter, for its dog teams filled her cache with their best provisions, and she was told that her credit was limitless.

Through all the ages man has been held the chief instigator of the woes of woman; but in this case the men held their tongues and swore harshly at one of their number who was away, while the women failed utterly to emulate them. So, without needless delay, Madeline heard strange tales of Cal Galbraith's doings; also, of a certain Greek dancer who played with men as children did with bubbles. Now Madeline was an Indian woman, and further, she had no woman friend to whom to go for wise counsel. She prayed and planned by turns, and that night, being quick of resolve and action, harnessed the dogs, and with young Cal securely lashed to the sled, stole away.

Though the Yukon still ran free, the eddy ice was growing, and each day saw the river dwindling to a slushy thread. Save him who has done the like, no man may know what she endured in traveling a hundred miles on the rim ice; nor may they understand the toll and hardship of breaking the two hundred miles of packed ice which remained after the river froze for good. But Madeline was an Indian woman, so she did these things, and one night there came a knock at Malemute Kid's door. There at he fed a team of starving dogs, put a healthy youngster to bed, and turned his attention to an exhausted woman. He removed her ice-bound mooseskins while he listened to her tale, and stuck the point of his knife into her feet that he might see how far they were frozen.

Despite his tremendous virility, Malemute Kid was possessed of a softer, womanly element, which could win the confidence of a snarling wolf or draw confessions from the most wintry heart. Nor did he seek them. Hearts opened to him as spontaneously as flowers to the sun. Even the priest, Father Roubeau, had been known to confess to him, while the men and women of the Northland were ever knocking at his door, a door from which the latch-string hung always out. To Madeline, he could do no wrong, make no mistake. She had known him from the time she first cast her lot among the people of her father's race; and to her half-barbaric mind it seemed that in him was his vision and the future there could be no intervening veil.

There were false ideals in the land. The social strictures of Dawson were not synonymous with those of the previous era, and the swift maturity of the Northland involved much wrong. Malemute Kid was aware of this, and he had Cal Galbraith's measure accurately. He knew a hasty word was the father of much evil; besides, he was minded to teach a great lesson and bring shame upon the man. So Stanley Prince, the young mining expert, was called into the conference

DEAD SHOTS IN CONGRESS

Two Marksmen Who Would Shine in Any Company Are Natives of Arkansas and Arizona.

If all the members and officers of the house and senate were drafted for service on the firing lines in France, there would be two veterans who would prove themselves to be the equal of most marksmen of France or England or any other country. The Washington Post says there are very few good shots in either house of congress. It is said, and no member of either body can compare with Jerry South of Arkansas, chief clerk of the house of representatives, as a rifle shot. Mr. South was known in Arkansas as the best shot in that part of the country in his younger days, and he is still there with the eye. The other man under the dome is Senator Mark Smith of Arizona.

It is a very difficult thing to put five shots in a silver dollar at a hundred yards, yet Jerry South has done it a dozen times. Senator Smith has tried, he said, five thousand times, perhaps, to do the same thing, but the best he has ever done was to plant four shots. Always one would go outside or cling to the outer edge of the dollar. He attributed his failure to imperfection of powder or shell, or the whim of the wind. The senator said he had even tried placing a rifle in a vise and seeing that nothing moved the gun, but invariably one shot would fall of its mark. The old Mills rifle—a muzzle loader—which was used in the early days of the war and afterward by many hunters, was the best rifle ever invented, according to Senator Smith.

Decoys for Mallards.

In mallard shooting, as a rule, half a dozen decoys will be enough, unless there is a succession of open ponds or lakes. If there is a great deal of open water you can use a dozen mallard decoys. About four drakes to eight hens for mallards make the best selection. Remember that mallards like little holes or ponds and a half dozen big decoys go a long way. Mallards are not like deep-water ducks; they prefer their own select crowd, while deep-water ducks like to be with the big bunch where nearly all kinds are mixed.—All Outdoors.
